

Pricing Strategy Sheet

Suggested "from $X" anchors, benchmarked against the market — for you to approve or adjust.

DRAFT FOR APPROVAL · NOT PUBLISHED

Purpose: so you approve numbers instead of inventing them · Prepared: August 7, 2026
Figures below are public competitor data + suggested positioning. Nothing here is live on the site.

THE STRATEGY IN ONE LINE

Show course prices. Quote the bespoke work.

The whole sector hides pricing. The one competitor who shows it (K9Sensus, $5,000) earns trust for it. Publishing "from $X" anchors on courses wins that trust, while keeping agency dogs, placement, and consulting as inquiry/custom-quote where deals are genuinely bespoke.

Why "from $X" and not exact

An anchor sets expectations and filters unqualified leads without boxing you in. It signals confidence and transparency while leaving room to scope each engagement.

SUGGESTED ANCHORS

Numbers for you to approve

These are starting suggestions positioned as a credible, field-authority operator — not the cheapest, not the most academic. Adjust to your economics; the site just needs a number to anchor on.

OFFERING	SUGGESTED PUBLIC ANCHOR	POSTURE
Handler Certification	From [$4,500–$6,000?]	Published "from"
Instructor Certification	From [$6,000–$8,500?]	Published "from"
Foundation Scent Detection	From [$2,500–$3,500?]	Published "from"
Field Deployment Training	[per-day or package?]	Published or inquiry
Detection dog placement	From [$8,000–$12,000?] by discipline	Inquiry / "from"
Consulting / audits	Custom quote (opt: day-rate [$?])	Inquiry
Program development	Custom quote	Inquiry

How to decide fast

For each course, pick the lowest price you'd genuinely accept and publish it as the "from." For dogs and consulting, decide only whether you want a visible floor or pure inquiry. That's the entire decision — the site is already built to accept either.

Positioning note

Your edge is operational field authority. Price at or slightly above the academies, not below — a bargain price undercuts the "proven in the field" premium. Let the proof justify the number.
